THE SCHOOL

DILIT, officially authorised by the Italian Ministry of Education, has been teaching Italian as a foreign language since 1974.

It is an early member of the IH World Organization, now a network of over 130 schools in more than 45 countries. It is also member of IALC (International Association of Language Centres), ASILS (Associazione Scuole di Italiano come lingua seconda) and AISLI (Associazione Italiana Scuole Di Lingue).

The school is an examination centre for the CELI examinations of Perugia University and for the CILS examinations of Siena University.

DILIT is also well known for its teacher training department accredited by the Italian Ministry of Education.

The school is situated in the centre of Rome just a short walk from the central railway station and conveniently placed for transport to every area of the city.

MISSION STATEMENT

The school's goal is to offer, in a multiethnic and multicultural contest, an environment and atmosphere where every student day after day feels welcome and the object of the care and attention of all the school's staff.

The school undertakes to make sure that everyone feels free to express their own opinion and to counteract any possible form of discrimination.

With the support of a teaching methodology ever-polished over decades of research and experimenting we want to make sure our students experience their study as true personal, intellectual and cultural development.

In order to achieve this goal our teaching and non-teaching staff are highly qualified and have many years of experience, properly employed on the best working conditions of the category and aware, all of us, of being an important part of a shared project.

All services and activities offered by the school, from teaching to leisure time activities and the accommodation office, are aimed at the well-being of each and every student. They are constantly monitored and regularly inspected by international organisations who guarantee proper behaviour, transparency and quality of service.

At the heart of everything we do is the awareness that every student comes to us with a dream – sometimes small, sometimes huge. Helping them turn that dream into reality isn't just our job – it's our greatest purpose and satisfaction.

Teaching methodology

Dilit International House was one of the first schools to adopt a fully communicative approach to the teaching of Italian, and the approach is being up-dated all the time.

Language is never presented out of context; and grammar, phonology, lexis and all other features of actual language use in everyday situations are analysed.

A wide variety of up-to-date authentic material is used in class, thus giving students valuable information about modern-day Italian culture and society at the same time as developing students' authentic linguistic and communicative skills. Our teachers, who have been teaching in the school for an average of 12 years, have been selected from special training courses. They regularly take part in dedicated professional development sessions on teaching methodology, organized by our Training and Research Department.

Levels - Exams

In common with most quality language providers in Europe, Dilit International House aligns its course levels with the descriptors of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). This is a system of levels developed under the auspices of the Council of Europe in order to bring uniformity to language descriptions and levels. This scale gives a short description of what learners can normally do at each of 6 levels (A1 to C2). The time it takes to learn to use a foreign language varies from person to person. Apart from the varying amount of time spent on home-study, other factors come into play such as individual aptitude, the distance between the foreign language and your native tongue or other languages previously learnt, the opportunity to practise the language with native speakers, and so on. The time presented in the chart below should therefore only be taken as a rough guide to the number of lessons needed to reach a particular level when starting off from beginner's level.
